

Police Clearance Certificate, PCC Attestation for UAE New Visa Rule 2018

POLICE CLEARANCE CERTIFICATE

Police Clearance Certificate or Certificate of Good Conduct

Starting from next month, there will be major changes to the UAE's visa system in the form of a brand new requirement of incoming expat workers to prove they don't have a criminal record, in either their country of origin or previous country of residence for last 5 years. UAE Authorities declared the strict new security checks this week, and from Feb 4, 2018, this year all those seeking a United Arab Emirates work visa will need to secure a Good Conduct and Behavior Certificate / Police Clearance Certificate (PCC). As The National reported, the goal is to help protect the country's national security and create a safer community. But just getting this certificate is not the only thing required, because according to New Visa Rule for UAE every one planning to obtain a UAE work visa needs to have a PCC Attestation for UAE for their country of residence and its attestation has to be done through UAE Embassy. Currently, sponsored family members and tourists are exempted from this new rule.
